DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claims 1-16, drawn to an option on a loan.

Group II, claims 17-20, drawn to analyzing mortgage loan applications.

Group III, claims 21-23, drawn to associating customers with future lock-triggering prices for a future transaction.

Group IV, claims 24, 25, drawn to a future lock-triggering price and a monetary value of an associated transaction.

Group V, claims 26-27, 29-30, 33-35, drawn to receiving information on a future lock-triggering price, and determining whether the lock has been triggered.

Group VI, claim 28, drawn to communicating information about a transaction involving a future lock-triggering price to a supplier.

Group VII, claims 31, 32, drawn to agreeing to an arrangement of how a transaction involving a future lock-triggering price will occur.

Group VIII, claim 36-45, drawn to portfolios of future rate locks which govern the closing of loans.

2. The inventions listed as Groups I-VIII do not relate to a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1 because, under PCT Rule 13.2, they lack the same or corresponding special technical features for the following reasons:

Groups I and II lack corresponding technical features because group II does not include the execution of an option on a loan, as required by group I.

Groups III-VIII include the same technical feature of a future lock-triggering price associated with a transaction. Future lock triggering prices for transactions were known in the art at the time of Applicant's invention. Capped-style options are known in the financial art to be an option with an associated underlying property and predefined floor or ceiling price, wherein, in the event the predefined price is reached by the underlying property, the option is automatically executed, and the property is purchased at that price. Therefore, a capped-style option contains a future lock-triggering price for the transaction because the option locks in the price for the buyer. This being the only technical feature, there is a lack of unity among groups III-VIII because the technical feature common to the groups is not a technical feature that defines a contribution over the prior art. See MPEP 1850(II).

3. A telephone call was made to Peter Tryzna on May 19, 2008 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.
